

31 Days, 31 Novels

31 Days, 31 Novels is the product of a month-long conceptual art project designed to produce 31 science fiction novels during August 2011. These once-a-day works are comprised of titles, plots and other text lifted directly from the Adopt threads on the website of National Novel Writing Month, an Internet-based writing program which challenges participants to write a 50,000-word novel in one month. Mark Leach made no changes to the appropriated content; typos and grammatical errors were retained and then repeated and multiplied by cut-up engines and other computerized tools. The novel excerpts presented in 31 Days, 31 Novels represent the first installment in the Space Artist Series, an ongoing project committed to producing a new type of literature untouched by the authorial hand. 31 Days, 31 Novels paves the way for a future of machine-generated writing. Mark Leach is author of the 17-million-word Marienbad My Love, the worlds longest novel. What he [Leach] does is the artistic equivalent of running newspaper ads, magazine articles, and tampon covers through a shredder, pouring glue on it, then taking a piss on it and calling that art. name withheld at request of the commentator
