

The Crystal Curse (Legends of the Winged Scarab Book 4)

Civilized life in the United States has collapsed following the Yellowstone Supervolcano eruption. A handful of unscrupulous foreign profiteers conspire to implement a New World Order. To achieve their idea of Earth's sustainability, millions are to be neutralized. Pitted against them are Egyptologist Naunet Wilkins, her scientist husband Jonathan, and their friends from Borgs preceding volumes of the Legends of the Winged Scarab. They are kidnapped by the piratical owner of a converted ghost ship carrying a ton of ancient golden tablets bartered away by the former Cairo Museum director Jabari El-Masri. He and Naunet are forced to recreate their supposedly lost previous translations of the First Dynasty slates. At a conference on Malta, the eight super-rich power mongers hammer out their diabolical agenda. When El-Masri tries to save his family first by lying about wondrous crystals to be found in the Ideon Cave on Crete, and then by admitting they only grow deep within the Lost Labyrinth of Egypt, the avaricious eight set their sights on mining them. But El-Hanash, the Crystal Snake, coils for those who dare defy the Crystal Curse. Who will live? And who will die? The Crystal Curse is Book 4 of Inge H. Borg's historical fiction series about the mystery of Ancient Egypt, the Legends of the Winged Scarab. Book 1 is Khamsin, The Devil Wind of The Nile (3080 BC). Book 2, Sirocco, Storm over Land and Sea, is a modern-day action & adventure thriller. After the Cataclysm is Book 3. Book 5, The Nile Conspiracy, is an international action thriller based on the very real and imminent threat of a huge Ethiopian dam on the Blue Nile, Egypt's lifeblood. While all books can be enjoyed as stand-alone novels, some important background information will be lost if not read in sequence.
