

Painting Seascapes in Sharp Focus

In this book Lin Seslar shows how to paint in oil very detailed, sharply focused images of the seashore in an almost photographically realistic manner. Seslar covers in 53 brief chapters virtually every aspect of painting seascapes. The chapters are organized into four key sections that make it easy for you to absorb and practice the material. You will learn how Seslar's sharp-focus technique differs from traditional painting methods through her use of well-defined edges, thin glazes on smooth-surfaced panels, and carefully considered contrasts between pure and grayed color and between light and dark values to convey that real feeling. You'll also find complete information on what materials Seslar uses, and why. The second section shows you in step-by-step detail how to paint all the elements of a seascape, including skies, headlands, the horizon, distant water, major waves, rocks, and surf. Next Seslar examines a series of completed paintings, showing through instructive close-ups and helpful commentary how to simplify complex subjects, select a point of view, create a visual flow, and dramatize a scene. In the final section you'll learn how to transform a photograph into your own beautiful painting.
