

Shotgun Fort (Fort Guidebook Book 2)

Build your own fort: These instructions are a guide to build a 4x8 fort that is roughly ten feet tall. It has a ladder leading into a four by eight foot housing area. The housing area is four feet from the ground and the roof is four feet from the deck. It is called a Shotgun Fort because it is a straight shot towards the back. I would recommend reading the entire instructions before proceeding, thoroughly. There are options, choices and special notes that may be of interest to you. Cost: The price for the materials to build this project would be dependent upon what material that you purchase. Some lumber is more expensive than others. However, the original structure was created with standard pine so the general cost would be around $500, which would include hardware. Time: I am not going to waste your time to estimate how long it will take you to assemble this fort. Every person has a different speed and it depends on your tools and expertise, obviously. As well as how much free time that is available to you. Theoretically, it could be completed in one day. Also theoretically, it could take you a week. If you hire some of the contractors that I've heard complained about, it could take them a whole year. There are further options to alter this plan at the end of these instructions. Some of these options include moving the ladder unit somewhere else. Creating a bench and table area. Or building a sandbox at the bottom of this unit.
