

Xzendor7 Fractal Art Compositions

This collection of Fractal Art Compositions explores fractal art not from the usual computer generated images using various formulas and scripts, but rather from an approach similar to what a sculptor uses. The images presented in this book are composed of fractal elements each created using a fractal generator. I will then take anywhere between 2, to over 50 of these fractal elements and assembled them into fanciful and colorful scenes or complex objects using an image editor. The result is fractal imagery without the computer generated appearance that is common to many of the fractal images that are commonly produced using fractal software. All of these fractal art compositions are of my own design; some were inspired by real world objects, but most are just creations of my minds eye. I hope you enjoy viewing my fractal art compositions as much as I enjoy creating them.
