

Mac Divot- 50 Years Ago Today in Golf: 1962 (Fifty Years Ago Today in Golf)

Mac Divot is the worlds first and longest running Golf comic strip. The strip was syndicated into 200+ newspapers both domestically and internationally from 1955 to 1977 through the Chicago Tribune New York News Syndicate. Mac Divot was read on a daily basis by millions of readers through the mass media of the day. In the strip, the lead character, Sandy Mac Divot, toured with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nickolas in the early days of the P.G.A. tour when the prize money was in the thousands vs. todays millions. Re-introducing Mac Divot to a new generation of golfers. When the strip began in 1955 Malcolm Mac Divot was the Golf Pro at the Rolling Knolls Golf Club. Macs assistant, Marla, had the hots for his son Sandy, who recently returned from Military Service. Sandy became the club pro and an accomplished Golfer eventually joining the P.G.A. Tour. The rest is history...Sandy went on to become one of the new Generation of professional golfers who competed on the tour with the likes of Jack Nicholas, Arnold Palmer, and Lee Trevino. Over the years he met and played with many of Golfs greatest legends including Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Billy Casper. Mac Divot has grown to become a respected voice of the sport of Golf from both an entertainment and instructional point of view. This book is the first of a series of 20 that will be published capturing as many of the original panels first published over half a decade ago. Some panels are missing but most have been archived and the stories and content are as captivating and entertaining and educational as ever. Enjoy
