

Common Interest: Documents

Common Interest explores document design in the fields of arts, culture, academia, public sector and charities. Displayed, handed out or sold in art galleries, cultural events and other public places, these designs are shared by the general public. Without big corporate budgets, close to a hundred case studies show resourceful and creative design solutions, which improve their conveyed message. Focusing on considered environmental solutions and unique production and finishing techniques, each study lists print and paper choices, together with details on finishing. This book is a practical guide and a rich source of graphic creativity for designers and clients alike.
