

What Happened To My Creativity?

The novella, What Happened To My Creativity? has been written with a style where brevity is of the essence. The idea here is not to evade or avoid many important issues that have been raised in the novella, but rather to put them across more forcefully in a condensed manner. The novella deals with intermeshed themes. The themes being love, loss, the dreaded disease alcoholism, recovery from it, a rich educated mans foray into a village, and his transformations of some its shabby conditions, and the ability of a wounded soul to learn to love again. The most important theme being how some of the aforementioned themes play a vital role in the life of a poet turned writer help him find the magic to be able to write poetry again.
